LEVEL CROSSING REMOVAL UPDATE

The Victorian Government has removed two dangerous and congested level crossings along the Hurstbridge line, built a brand new Rosanna Station, and duplicated the single section of track between Heidelberg and Rosanna. This will make communities safer and get commuters in Melbourne's north east home sooner.

While cars continue to travel freely on Lower Plenty Road and trains take advantage of the duplicated track between Rosanna and Heidelberg, works on the Rosanna Station precinct continue. These will be finished in the coming months and landscaping will occur when the weather is warmer towards the end of the year.

We have finalised landscaping plans for the area north of Lower Plenty Road, under the rail bridge, and on the corner of Beetham Parade and Lower Plenty Road.

Thanks to everyone who attended the drop-in session at Hunter Lane on 12 July to discuss the finer details of the station precinct landscaping options.

Also in Rosanna, Turnham Avenue will be returned to two-way in late October 2018. This is to allow for further improvements to the station precinct, including re-asphalting Turnham Avenue, installing new fully indented bus bays and shelters on both sides of the road, as well as two new pedestrian crossings.

We apologise for this delay and appreciate the community's patience while we finish the project.

The Eaglemont substation was installed last month and works to connect it to the network are continuing. This work is in preparation for a new timetable on 26 August that will see additional weekday services for the Hurstbridge line.

24-hour works

Periods of 24-hour works are expected in August and September 2018. We will inform affected residents once dates are confirmed.

During periods of 24-hour works, we will access storage facilities in Yallambie, Watsonia, Heidelberg and Macleod.

While we take steps to mitigate the impacts from construction activities, residents near work sites and storage areas may notice noise, light and dust while works are taking place, including at night.
